

Monthly Conflict Incident Tracker

Rivers State - April/May 2016

Background

This monthly tracker is designed to update Peace Agents on patterns and trends in conflict risk and violence, as identified by the Integrated Peace and Development Unit (IPDU) early warning system, and to seek feedback and input for response to mitigate areas of conflict.

Patterns and Trends Feb 2016-Apr 2016

According to Peace Map data (see Figure 1), March (the month of the rerun legislative elections) had the highest levels of conflict risk and fatalities during the period, with criminality, cult violence and political tension as the main sources of violence.

Political Tension: Before and after the March re-run elections, dozens were reportedly killed across all three senatorial districts. In Rivers Southeast, ethnic sentiments were heightened when Ogoni youths protested what they perceived to be polarizing rhetoric by the governor. Cultists such as the Icelanders were reportedly employed as thugs to intimidate opposition party members and supporters. Other incidents included the killing of a former member of the State House of Assembly in Obio/Akpor. In April, an APC chieftain who was also a lecturer in the state polytechnic at Bori, was reportedly shot dead in Gokana. During the March re-run elections, a staff of the Independent National Electoral Commission (INEC) was reportedly killed in Ikwerre. Also, members of the National Youth Service Corps (NYSC) were reported killed in Akuku-Toru and Ahoada West LGAs, as well as several fatalities reported in Port Harcourt, Tai and Abua/Odual LGAs.

Cult Violence: About a dozen fatalities were reported when cultists attacked two communities in Ahoada East. In a separate incident, seven people were reported killed when cultists attacked two communities in Ogba/Egbema/Ndoni LGA. In Emuoha, six fatalities were reported in a supremacy battle between Degbam and Icelanders cult groups.

Militancy: Clashes between the military and ex-militants reportedly killed several in Gokana. Militants also reportedly attacked a police station in Andoni.

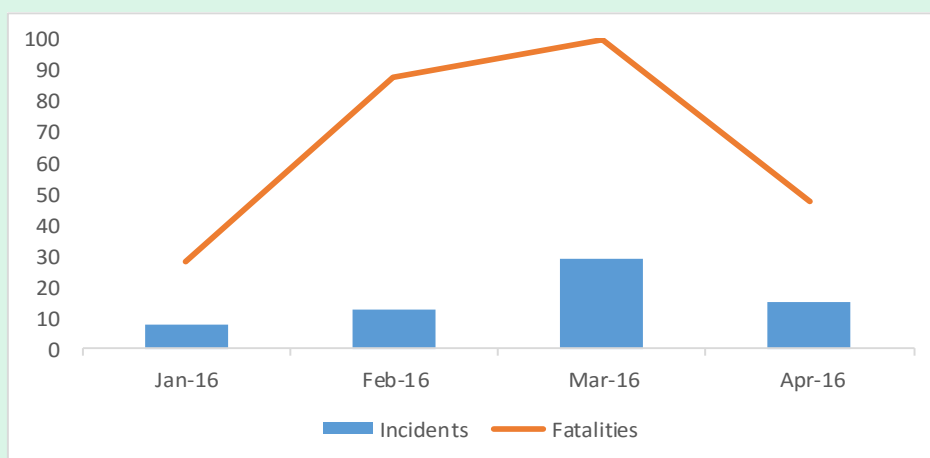

Communal Violence: In addition to several reports of suspected cultists other unknown gunmen attacking communities in Abua/Odual, Ogba/Egbema/Ndoni, Andoni, Ikwerre, Ahoada West, and Ahoada East, and Khana, there was a clash reported between Nwebiara and Barako communities in Gokana that reportedly killed about six in February.
