

FOUNDATION FOR PARTNERSHIP INITIATIVES IN THE NIGER DELTA

Request for Applications – Internship to support NDLink (www.ndlink.org) and other PIND Advocacy Objectives

BACKGROUND

The Foundation for Partnerships Initiatives in the Niger Delta (PIND Foundation) is a non-profit foundation that promotes peace and equitable economic growth in Nigeria's Niger Delta region through multi-stakeholder partnerships. This work is funded with the support of the Chevron Corporation and other esteemed partners and collaborators. PIND works in concert with Washington DC-based Niger Delta Partnership Initiative (NDPI) Foundation.

The Foundation also works closely with numerous partners to implement collaborative market-based, community-owned programs to mitigate conflicts and boost economic opportunities for local businesses, ensuring that economic progress occurs in a systemic, inclusive, and sustainable manner, and has projects spanning the nine states in the region: Abia, Akwa Ibom, Bayelsa, Cross River, Delta, Imo, Ondo and Rivers, with special focus on the underserved and hard to reach coastal communities of the region that are most forgotten in development programming.

PIND strongly believe that no single organization can solve the complex and interconnected development challenges in the Niger Delta. Since 2010, PIND and partners have been contributing to strengthening and stabilizing the region by reducing poverty, powering coastline communities, nurturing youth employment, fostering stability, and enabling development.

The Foundation established an internship program to allow students and young graduates to develop their professional interests and capacity in their chosen career paths in fields related to PIND's programs and operations. The internship provides opportunities to share ideas and have exposure to PIND's programs and projects, with the following key learning goals:

- Learning how theoretical knowledge gained is applied in a practical professional setting
- Providing interns with an enriching professional work environment within PIND that would help career directions/decisions.

PROJECT BACKGROUND

In 2013, PIND launched NDLink (www.ndlink.org), an online information and communications platform for development actors working in the Niger Delta Region. NDLink was launched out of the realization that there is a fundamental need for better development stakeholder coordination in the Niger Delta. NDLink is the information and communications platform for development actors working in the Niger Delta. Through its services, NDLink plays a critical role in allowing organizations to build partnerships, expand capacity, create media awareness, and engage with one another to achieve the same goal of sustainable development of the Niger Delta region.

By using NDLink, stakeholders in the region will be able to:

- Understand current events in the region
- Engage reliable partners
- Find staff and consultants
- Promote community engagement accomplishments to relevant audience
- Publish and find funding opportunities
- Build relationships and networks
- Publish/Find employment opportunities
- Build and share collective knowledge about the region

As a prelude to establishing this platform, PIND's market research in 2012 identified several key target groups for the NDLink development portal, including government, international oil companies (IOCs), donors, development implementers, and development professionals to address the market needs identified for these groups, NDLink has four founding goals, which include development, coordination, partnership and sustainability.

NDLink's Components

NDLink is the one-stop Niger Delta development news and information platform. Therefore, the NDLink team constantly works to build a community of users by offering a site that is the nexus of information relevant to development in the Niger Delta, including:

- COMMUNITY: This features NDLink's community of practice including champions, contributors, funders, organizations, and members. All these categories have sub-pages on the website.
- NEWS: This section is premised on development news stories, resources, including Conflict Information to better understand Conflict trends in the region.
